Wisconsin Stands By Tariff

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 9.—Republicans of the State assembled in convention here today adopted a platform strongly endorsing the administration of President Taft, and also the present tariff.

This declaration of the State convention puts United States Senator La Follette in a peculiar position, as he has been one of the bitterest opponents of the tariff law. He will soon come before the voters in the primaries as a candidate to succeed himself.

DIAZ HONORS THE KAISER

BERLIN, June 9.—Emperor William has accepted a decoration of the Order of the Mexican Eagle conferred upon him by President Diaz of Mexico.

SIR NEWNES IS DEAD

LONDON, June 9.—Sir George Newnes, the famous publisher, died here today.

STAND-PATTERS WIN CONVENTION

DES MOINES, Ia., June 9.—Republican "stand-patters" will control the Republican State convention of the returns of the primaries may be depended upon. Final returns show that the Insurgents were either defeated in the contest for the control of the convention, or centered all their efforts on carrying their nominees for Congress and allowed the State control to go by default.

The Evening Bulletin will not be issued on Saturday, June 11, Kamehameha Day.

WATER GAUGING IN HAWAII

Representatives To Give Islands Equal Chance

Equal rights of Hawaii with other territories to share in appropriations for well and stream gauging took up some considerable time in the House on debate in the Amendment to the Organic Act.

Following treats on that subject: Mr. Mann. And he does not place the making of them, so far as the Geological Survey is concerned, I regret to say.

Mr. Tawney. And especially those made for the Geological Survey.

Mr. Butler. Is Hawaii the only place where the wells might be dug?

Mr. Tawney. Oh, no; there are other places.

Mr. Hamilton. I only know of one artesian well.

Mr. Tawney. I know of one place in the South. I think in the State of Texas, where we voted money to improve the navigation of a river, and in order to get the water to navigate

WHAT WOOLLEYISM MEANS

Urge Entire Block, Cable From McClellan Commercial Bodies Advised To Act Without Delay On Mahuka Site

That prompt action is necessary by the public bodies of Honolulu in connection with the Mahuka site development and the feeling of the Treasury Department that the remainder of the block is needed, was indicated today when a combination cable from George H. McClellan, Chairman of the Mahuka site development, and the Chamber of Commerce, the cable reads as follows:

"Merchants, Commerce:—Cable Chairman Bartholdt urging necessity entire block building site."

Action upon this cable will be taken without delay by the trustees of the Merchants' Association, and while a meeting for action on the cable has not been called by President Waldron, yet it is probable that action will not be delayed later than tomorrow.

"This is the first direct word, aside from McClellan's letter, that the Merchants' Association has received on the Mahuka site development," stated President Waldron this morning. The cable will not come up for consideration at the meeting of the association this afternoon, but will be dealt with at a special meeting of the board of trustees.

The receipt of the combination cable this morning tended to emphasize the fact that the latest Mahuka site development has produced a strained feeling between the Merchants' Association and the Chamber of Commerce. That there will be nothing approaching unanimity of action on the Mahuka site question is admitted, the officers of the Merchants' Association feeling that the Chamber of Commerce might have been a trifle more communicative in connection with the cables that were received from Kuhl as far back as May 23—at which time Governor Frear is also reported to have received notification from the Delegate to Congress informing him of the development that placed the Mahuka site once more in jeopardy.

May Act Today.

There is a strong probability that a consideration of the Mahuka site will be brought up at the quarterly meeting of the Merchants' Association this afternoon, although in view of President Waldron's statement the subject will not be considered on the basis of the cable received from McClellan this morning.

There are three other questions of widespread interest that will be considered. The one that promises a strong division of opinion is the policy of the association in regard to the amendment before Congress providing for the application of the commerce law to the interisland traffic of the Territory.

This is being strongly opposed by the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company, while B. F. Dillingham has appeared as the strongest advocate of the application of the regulations to the shipping as well as the railroads of the Territory.

Vice-President McLean of the Inter-Island has declared that the imposition of the rates to the shipping of the Territory is mainly sponsored by the railroad interests for selfish purposes and he is expected to lend further emphasis to this view at the meeting to be held this afternoon.

The selling at cost by plantation stores will also come up for action, with the possibility of divided opinion, but there does not seem to be any differences probable in consideration of the proposition to secure a regulation for the employment of citizens only on the works at Pearl Harbor.

LABOR EXEMPTED

(Special Bulletin Cable.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9.—The Senate today eliminated the House provision of the "Sundry Civil Bill" exempting labor organizations from prosecution under the antitrust law.

AMBULANCE WAS SLOW

The corpse of the suicide and murdered woman lay in the lane where the tragedy was committed until almost half-past nine o'clock. A curious crowd of children and others encircled the bodies, and the sun slowly dried up the blood that had streamed from the wounds of both the dead persons.

The delay is said to have been caused by the fact that the morgue wagon was away on some other duty and could not be secured.

Suicide After Slaying Wife Double Tragedy On Day Divorce Was To Be Granted

Two lives were instantly snuffed out by the well directed shots from a revolver fired by the hand of John Aki at an early hour this morning, sending three bullets into the body of his wife, Hattie Aki, and then turning the weapon upon himself, one remaining ball crashed into his brain, just over the right eye, in each case death resulting in less than three minutes after the first encounter.

The first bullet penetrated the woman's breast, and she was evidently stunned and ran. Her husband followed her up and firing another shot hit his wife between the shoulder blades. Still she staggered on, and it was the third shot which struck the woman in the back of the head, and emerged through the side of the nose that killed her instantly.

Summit Lane, a narrow, hilly and crooked little roadway leading off from a point near the junction of Punchbowl and School streets was the scene of a deliberate murder and suicide which brought hundreds of people residing on the densely populated slopes of Punchbowl as numb and startled spectators.

The entire neighborhood was aroused at six-forty five this morning by a fusillade of shots and many persons ran to the scene found an exceedingly comely part Hawaiian girl lying in the middle of the muddy road, weltering in her life blood, which trickled in a sluggish stream down the hill side.

Not ten feet away, the husband of the dead woman had dropped in his tracks, a victim of a bullet fired by his own hand with suicidal intent. Aki never uttered a sound after the firing of the shot which resulted in his death.

Murder Then Suicide.

Aki, who shared in the revolting crime on Punchbowl this morning comes from Chinese and Hawaiian ancestry. He is the second Hawaiian-Chinese within a few short weeks who has participated in a tragic

HILO PROHIBS THORNY PATH

Meetings Are Dreary And Enthusiasm Lacking

(Special Correspondence.)
Hilo, June 6.—Nakookoo and Monaman, the traveling prohibitionists, yesterday held a prohibition rally in the Hall Church, the former president. They have had a hard time here in Hilo, and were not able to get together a rally except through the means of the church, which, of course, had a standing clientele. They, also yesterday, finally managed to organize a Prohibition club for Hilo, but only one for men; they say that they have not the time to organize one for women. The meeting was fairly well attended, the church being more than half full, though a large part of the audience was composed of boys from the Hilo Boarding School who attended in a body.

Nakookoo announced that a discussion of the liquor evil was the purpose of the meeting. "America has given us the privilege to make the choice for ourselves by providing the plebiscite," he said. "It is up to the people of Hawaii to turn to God and leave off drinking."

Rev. August Dahms, the pastor of the Foreign Church, was the first speaker. He said that next month a great question was to be decided. It was a question which had been forced upon the Hawaiians by necessity. Before the foreigners came to Hawaii the Hawaiians had been a temperate people, and they were now to decide whether they intended to remain so.

The speaker did not propose to discuss the merits of the question or its morals, but he would say that a majority of the States of the Union had decided that liquor was a curse, and had become dry. It was significant that four-fifths of the States in the South had turned to prohibition; this was a strong indictment against the liquor traffic.

There were several ways of legislating on this great issue. There was high license, making the license practically so high that it eliminated the smaller saloons, and limited the evil to the so-called "respectable" saloons. That, it could be readily seen, was no cure, for there would be as much drinking as before, even if there were only two "respectable" saloons—that was a misnomer, for there were no respectable saloons. It was like placing a plaster on the body to cure heart disease. The other method of fighting the liquor evil was by means of prohibition measures, by

BARED ARMS TO VACCINE PROD

Logan Passengers May Feel Effect Of New Ruling

Officers, enlisted men and other passengers who are traveling across the Pacific by the United States army transport Logan and due to arrive at Honolulu on Monday, may be one of the first to feel the effect of a ruling which requires the army surgeons to make an inspection of the vessel immediately after sailing from a port and to vaccinate all passengers and crews if deemed necessary or expedient.

The continued recurrence of smallpox on the United States cruiser Washington, prior to the arrival of that vessel at Honolulu with the rest of the Pacific fleet, some months ago is believed has resulted in the issuance of the new order. The Washington went into quarantine, while here and remained isolated until the expiration of the required period of detention. Three days before the fleet sailed for San Francisco, the Washington was released.

All apparently went well until the Washington arrived at Seattle, at which time it was discovered that at least six additional cases of smallpox had developed during the nine days voyage from the Hawaiian Islands to Bremerton navy yard.

General orders, coming from the heads of the Army and Navy departments have therefore been circulated. The surgeons of all transports plying in the Pacific have been admonished that under no circumstances, should any epidemic of smallpox, cholera or plague occur on board a government vessel and that if the regulations in force are complied with, such diseases can be prevented from spreading.

What action may be taken in the case of the Logan will be determined upon the arrival of that troopship from San Francisco.

HAWAII COTTON EXCITING INTEREST

Hawaii's cotton is quiet, but very certainly making a name for itself among the cotton buyers of the country, and also proving itself to be a certain factor in the prosperity of the islands.

N. S. Sachs, writing to a friend in this city who is interested in cotton, says in a recent letter:

"The sample of cotton you gave me sent to a friend of mine in New York who is a cotton converter. He submitted the sample to a cotton mill man. They pronounced the same to be a very good grade of cotton, worth from twenty-three to twenty-five cents a pound, and wanted to know what quantity could be delivered. In fact, my friend wrote they were very much interested, and would like to know more about Hawaiian cotton."
